FROM JULY 6. TO JULY 13. 1738.

LONDON, April 4.

Extract from the VOTES of the Hon. Houſe of Commons.

ON Tueſday laſt, upon the Report of the Evidences relating to the Depredations of the Spaniards, Mr. Pultney moved, That as every thing was fully proved to the Satisfaction of the Houſe, that His Majeſty might be addreſſed to declare War againſt Spain, and that His faithful Commons, as dutiful and loyal Subjects, would uſe their utmoſt Endeavours to raiſe Supplies for carrying on the ſame, which occaſioned great Debates: When Sir Robert Walpole ſpoke to the following Effect. That it was an eaſy Matter to plunge ourſelves into War, but the moſt difficult Thing in Nature to put a Stop to it when once begun; that it would be proper for us firſt to weigh the Matter thoroughly before we determine ſo deſperate a Reſolution; that a War would ruin and deſtroy Thouſands, and we had no Right to play away the Lives of our Fellow-Subjects in ſuch a Manner; that to all Appearance, the Merchants had made good the Allegations of their ſeveral Petitions, but that they ought to take Notice, the Adverſaries were not preſent to diſprove them; that it would be highly neceſſary to repreſent the ſeveral Captures proved to the Houſes to the Court of Spain, and hear what they can alledge in their Defence, before we entirely condemn them, which would be but giving them the ſame Liberty as is allowed in Courts of Judicature; that the contrary would be at the beſt but Star-Chamber Practice, which he was ſure they would in no Ways approve of, &c.

Mr. Pulteney's Anſwer was to the following Effect, viz. That the Engliſh had for many Years patiently born the Inſults of the Spaniards, at the ſame time when our Miniſter was daily ſollicited for Redreſs for our Merchants: That it was clearly evident the Court of Spain (though often preſſed to accommodate this Affair) always evaded making Satisfaction, by Anſwers, either foreign or altogether trifling: And in his Opinion, by the many Shifts they have ſo frequently made, we may plainly perceive that no Satisfaction will be peaceably obtained; that while we ſuffer them to go on uninterrupted in their barbarous Depredations, we were contributing to the Ruin of the Merchants, who trade to thoſe Parts, and conſequently to the impoveriſhing of this Kingdom. That in Queen Elizabeth's Days, this Nation exerted its Power, and humbled the Pride of Spain in deſtroying their vaſt Armado, when they intended a Deſcent upon our Iſland; and that when Oliver Cromwell was Protector of this Kingdom, France and Spain ſtood in ſuch Awe of him, that they were afraid to build a Ship, leſt he ſhould take Umbrage at it; in thoſe Days Britannia might juſtly have ſtiled herſelf the Empreſs of the Seas, and Lawgiver of all Europe; and concluded, that as we had preſented divers Memorials to the Court of Spain in Behalf of the Merchants (which have already taken conſiderable Time) and have never obtained any Satisfaction, he thought it high Time to repay ourſelves, and to puniſh that Nation for the many repeated Injuries we have often received from them. Mr. Sandys Mr. Wortley, Sir John Aubyn, &c. ſpoke to the ſame Effect.

Sir William Young reply'd to Mr. Pultney to the following effect. That we ought not to be too raſh in determining a War againſt the Spaniards, for that upon Inquiry it might be proved to the Satisfaction of the Houſe that ſeveral of thoſe Ships were forfieted to the King of Spain, as being Laden with Contraband Goods, and that he had been informed, that the Engliſh Merchants had made Prizes of ſome Spaniſh Ships, and Complaint made to our Court on the Account. That we ſhould firſt conſider the Situation our Merchants were in with the Spaniards, before we declare War againſt them; that, provided the Spaniards were not our Debtors, or that our Merchants had Equivalent in their hands, the property would be much altered. But at this Time the Spaniards were in Poſſeſſion of our Merchants Effects to the Value of five Millions Sterling, when perhaps they have not the Value of one Million in their own Hands. That the ſubſequent Conſequences of a War would be that the Spaniards would keep our Merchants Effects in their Hands, and not part with them 'till neceſſity obliges them to it. That in the mean while the War was carrying on, our Merchants would be in the utmoſt Diſtreſs for their Effects, eſpecially as their Affairs would remain but in a bad Situation, ſince they could not poſſibly trade with ſafety, &c. Upon which the Queſtion was put, that his Majeſty be Addreſſed for a War, which paſſed in the Negative, Ayes, 209, Noes, 256.

This Day the Commons went with an Addreſs to his Majeſty to uſe his utmoſt Endeavours with the King of Spain, to obtain Satisfaction for the Loſſes ſuſtained by the Britiſh Merchants, &c.

From the Virginia Gazette of June 16. 1738.

Mr. Parks,

AS I find many Perſons railing againſt the Rattleſnake-Root, without making any Experiment thereof, ſome through Diſreſpect to the Diſcoverer, others thro' the Fondneſs of their own Opinion, and their Unwillingneſs that any Diſcovery of ſo great Uſe as this, ſhould be made by any but themſelves; and others, purely to prevent the Uſe of ſo good a Medicine, which they are ſure muſt (when univerſally known) be the Occaſion of ſome Loſs to them: And, as I have often, in a very extraordinary Manner, found the Effects of this moſt valuable Medicine, both in my Perſon and Family, I cannot be guilty of ſo much Ingratitude to the Author, or Injuſtice to the Publick, as to forbear publiſhing the ſame.

I am not at all acquainted with Phyſick, or any thing elſe to enable me to anſwer the Objections of ſome Gentlemen who have railed and argued againſt this moſt valuable Medecine, in Terms to me unknown; but as the Diſcoverer is now in Virginia, I doubt not but he will anſwer all thoſe hard-worded Gentlemen in their own Way: I only intend to declare to the World, plain Matters of Fact, in which

I am confident I have not been deceived. Be it known then, I was visited with a severe Fit of the Gout, at the Age of Thirteen Years and six Months, and once or twice in a Year afterwards, with very sharp Fits, by Means whereof I was so weakened that I could scarcely walk, and could not ride much, but in a Wheel-Carriage, and had almost given out my Business, which was attending County Courts in Virginia, as an Attorney. In March, 1736, I had the severest Fit I ever had in my Life, and was in a very weak and low Condition for a long time after, insomuch that I almost dispaired of ever walking Twenty Yards: Then being of the common receiv'd Opinion, that the Gout was not to be cured, and by the common Forerunners of that Disease, I apprehended myself in Danger of another severe Fit. In this melancholy Condition, I resolved to try the Rattlesnake-Root, (tho with as little Expectation of Success as any of the Gentlemen who rail against it would expect, were they to use it): After the taking two or three Doses, I found myself clear of the Danger of that Fit, and in a small Time, much stronger, and abler to walk, than I had been for two Years before. At another Time, I made use of this Medecine with like Success. On the 12th of April last, I went to Williamsburgh, which is near an Hundred Miles from my House; I stay'd there (without taking any of this Medecine) till the 5th of May: The 8th, on my Return home, I had Reason to believe, from several Symptoms, that a Fit of the Gout was near hand. I was then 38 Miles from Home, and made what haste I cou'd thither: The 9th, I began to prepare the Medecine; that Night about Midnight, I awak'd, and found myself in a great deal of Pain, with the Gout in one of my Feet, which kept me from Sleeping the Remainder of the Night, and grew worse till 12 o'Clock. The 10th, I could not walk one Step; then I resolved to take a Dose of the Tincture of this Root, tho' then not long enough prepared; I immediately took it, lay down on a Bed, and covered my self warm; in less than half an Hour I found the Pain abate, and in less than half an Hour more fell into a sound Sleep, which lasted about 4 Hours: When I awaked, my Pain was intirely gone, and I in a Sweat: I soon after got up, and that Evening walked near a Mile, with Ease: The 12th, I rode on Horseback to a County Court, Ten Miles from home, attended the Bar all Day, and return'd at Night. Monday the 15th, I set out on a Journey of 120 Miles, I attended the Business of Two County Courts that Week, and returned home on Friday in good Health and Strength. I verily believe, that this Medecine, if taken in Time, would have cured me perfectly. I am now upwards of 40 Years old, and am fully persuaded this Medecine, carefully used, will cure any Person that has not very long been afflicted with this cruel Disease. I am also fully convinced this Medecine has saved the Lives of many of my Negroes and others, in that Distemper, which rages here, and is by many called a Pleurisy: And that it is a sure Cure in a Quartan Ague. I therefore hope People will not offer to run down and prevent the Use of so good a Medecine, to serve their own Ends, until they have fully experienced the good or bad Effects thereof. And if any Person desires to know how I use it, let him make it known in Mr. Parks's Paper, and he shall soon have what he desires. This I publish, to serve my afflicted Brethren.

Benjamin Walker.

WILLIAMSBURGH, June 30. We have Advice, by a Letter from Hampton, dated June 25, "That a Passenger "landed there, from on board a Ship gone up the Bay, "that came ten Weeks ago from Plymouth, who reports, "That 22 Sail of Men of War were put into Commission; "and that there was a very hot Press at Home; that the "Spanish Envoy was forbid the Court, and order'd out of "England; that Sir Yelverton Peyton was at Plymouth, "and also another Man of War, of 50 Guns, which said "last Ship was to convoy the Soldiers design'd for Geor-"gia; and that it was generally believ'd we shou'd have a "War with Spain.

This Week an Express came here from Orange County to the Governor, to acquaint his Honour, That some Indians had lately murder'd 11 White Persons, Men, Women and Children, who were settled far back on the Frontiers of that County; and that 'twas believ'd they were Alleganey Indians: Whereupon his Honour was pleas'd to issue Commissions to Persons to go, with arm'd Men, in Pursuit of the Indians; and also to order a Messenger to go to the Indian Settlement at Allegany, to demand the Murderers, if they should be found among them; and also gave such other Instructions and Orders as his Honour thought necessary for the Preservation of the Frontier Inhabitants.

BOSTON, July 3.

Last Week Capt. Nathaniel Wyer arrived here from the West-Indies, who informs, that on the 18th of June past, about Five o'Clock in the Morning, being off of Bermuda, he met with terrible Thunder and Lightning, which struck the Top of one of his Masts, shiver'd it clear down to the Step, and set the Goods in the Hold on Fire; and the Men being all upon Deck, were struck down and stunned: The Captain was the first that recover'd his Senses, who observing the Vessel on Fire, did his utmost to restore the Men to the use of their Reason and Limbs, which in some Measure he did in a short Time, when despairing of ever overcoming the Fire, they hoisted out the Boat in order to make their Escape in it; but resolved first to try to extinguish the Flames, which they at last happily effected, tho' with great Difficulty.

Several Persons have lately had their Pockets pick'd in this Town, and last Thursday John Mucklewain and his Wife were committed to Bridewell, by Mr. Justice Adams, upon a strong Suspicion that they had been concern'd in some of those Facts; for besides other Circumstances a Pocket Book was found in the Bosome of a Child of theirs about Six Years old, wherein was about Twelve Pounds in Bills of Credit, some of which have been sworn to by one of the Persons robbed. They say they came from Philadelphia to this Town about Three Weeks ago, in Company with Peter Hambleton and others, who have been strolling about the Town ever since. Mucklewain himself was remov'd from Bridewell to the Prison on Friday, but his Wife still continues in her former Lodging: And on Saturday their Friend Hambleton and his Wife were committed to Prison for picking a Pocket the beginning of the Week; so the Knot being now happily broke, 'tis hoped we may keep what little Money we have, safe in our Pockets. They appear to be very unhappy in their Memories, none of them being able to tell one Story twice.

Saturday last Capt. Coleman arrived from Cadiz, by whom we have Letters of the first of May past, which say, that all manner of Business is at a Stand there, the Talk of a War, the Press, and other Preparations in England, have discouraged all Gentlemen from Shipping any thing on board Ships bound for London or the Streights; and that all sorts of Provisions were fallen to near one half of what they were formerly sold for, occasion'd by the vast Quantities lately brought in.

By Capt. Bennet, who arrived here from Cork in Ireland, last Tuesday, we are told, That 15 Sail of Men of War were put in Commission, in order to proceed to Georgia and South-Carolina, to prevent any Designs the Spaniards may have upon those Colonies; and from thence (if need be) to sail to the West-Indies, to protect our Settlements from the Insults of a People as barbarous as they are faithless. That said Squadron was about half manned, and that there was a very hot Impress both in Great Britain and Ireland, for the Royal Navy. It is further added, that if it should be found needful for the said Squadron to continue in America, it is to Winter in some of these Northern Ports, to be ready for an Expedition whenever there shall be Occasion.
